CORRESPONDENCE.

MAGOFFIN COUNTY.

Hendrick's Farm.

Noah Minix and wife were guests of Mr. Spurlock Sunday.

John W. Mayo, of Paintsville, was here on business Saturday.

Born, to the wife of A. J. Bailey, of this place, a 10 pound baby girl. Henry Rice and wife are visiting friends and relatives at Wesley chapel.

N. P. Lykins, of Prestonsburg, was in Salyersville on business Saturday.

N. P. and Calloway Howard are making several levies for the taxes of the county.

Calloway Howard and wife are visiting friends and relatives at Whitakersville.

Galen Arnett, of this place, left for West Liberty Sunday to attend to his business affairs.

Rev. G. C. May, of Floyd county, passed through here en route to Mt. Sterling a few days ago.

Mrs. B. W. Arnett, of this place, is engaged in the willow basket business. Think she is having very good success.

W. O. Howard, one of our hustling farmers, has been trading considerably in real estate and personal property.

Eugene B. Arnett, one among the best business young men of our county, is in very bad health at present. Hope for the better in the future.

Dr. B. F. Dickson, of Salyersville, is getting a good practice in our county. He had 82 cases of typhoid fever on hand in April 1895, and only lost 2.

Harris Howard, one of White Oak's hustling merchants, was at Salyersville on business Saturday, rather prospecting the country and trying to buy some young cattle.

Fred Patrick, of Ivyton, and Miss Tida Carpenter, of Whitakersville, were united in matrimony Thursday, the 5th inst. May they be happy in the future and all their troubles be little ones.

E. D. May, one of the Hazel Green Academy pupils, paid us all a pleasant visit Saturday. Mr. May is one of Macfadin's brainiest products and will make a good scholar some of these days before very long.

Captain Reuben Patrick of Salyersville, bought four head of cattle at the Gillett sale at Whitakersville, two yearling steers and two 2 year-olds. Would have averaged 600 pounds to the steer, and cost him $100. Cattle seems to be bearing a good price according to his purchase.

Maytown Missils.

Died, on the 10th of March, after suffering almost one year with consumption, James H. Bowlin, living near town. He was buried in the family grave yard of Arch Day.

H. C. Hord is now in his nice home in Maytown. He has rented 15 or 20 acres of the best corn land we have. He comes to us Hazel Green, well recommended as a citizen and gentleman, and we welcome him and his estimable family to our midst.

04th March is a bright jolly fellow. He's blustering and -ugh, you see, And he seems to delight In creating a fright, But at heart he's as good as can be, For he brings along our birthday.

Like the old war god—Mars—his name sake, He comes with a rush and a roar, Bringing blizzards, perhaps, And cold freezing snaps, Till we long for his reign to be o'er, Although he brings along our birthday.

JUDGE BECKNER.

A Correspondent of a West Virginia Paper interviews him.

In traveling to Pikeville, Ky., this week we were thrown with the Hon. W. M. Beckner, who was nominated and elected in 1894 to fill out the unexpired term of Hon. M. C. Lisle in congress. He is a most genial traveling companion, and a gentleman of varied experience in state and national politics, and from an humble position in boyhood he has attained most flattering recognition from his countrymen. He was born June 19th, 1841, in Nicholas county Ky., and after a short career as a teacher he located in Winchester, Ky., in January, 1865, and soon thereafter was made county attorney and later county judge.

In 1880 he was appointed a member of prison commission by Gov. Luke P. Blackburn, and visited all the prisons of the country; wrote the report of the commission which was highly complimented by those engaged in prison reform. All prison legislation in Kentucky has since been on the lines of this report. He was appointed railroad commissioner in 1882, and served nearly two years when he resigned, although he had two more years of service before him in an office worth $2,000 per year, with little to do.

He began the agitation of the school question in Kentucky twenty-five years ago; organized meetings and conventions; urged the passage of the new school law of 1883-4; was elected to the constitutional convention in 1890, and took a leading part in framing the new constitution of Kentucky; was elected to the legislature in 1888 without Republican opposition; was nominated by the Democrats in 1894 to fill out the unexpired term of M. C. Lisle in congress; was elected over his Republican opponent by 1,261 majority; served on the committee of elections; offered the first resolutions in congress expressing sympathy with the Armenians, a poor mountain people oppressed and persecuted by the Turks because they believe in the Christian religion; introduced a bill providing for equality in the grant of public school lands for school purposes; made a speech on the currency question in which he favored the repeal of the tax on state bonds so as to let them issue circulating notes; advocated the use of both gold and silver as well as paper currency, all to be on a parity in value; wrote the report of the minority opposing a bill introduced by Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts, which, if passed, would turn over to the United States courts the determination of every contest for election in congress, so far as a presidential right is concerned—that is, as to who should sit until the proof is taken and the contest finally decided. Judge Beckner's report on this was highly complimented by men like Wm. L. Wilson, Dan Lockwood and others. Judge Beckner got his committee, which had unanimously endorsed this bill, to reconsider, when it only got 7 out of 15 members of the committee. This is one of the most dangerous and unconstitutional measures introduced in years, because the state authorities alone have the right to certify who was elected and the house to decide as to the election and return of its own members.

By his land grant bill Kentucky would get certificates for nearly 1,400,000 acres, and West Virginia nearly 900,000 acres of land. The states that formed the union and Tennessee, Kentucky, Maine and West Virginia got no lands for school purposes. The states admitted to the union from 1803 to 1850 had 840 acres, or one section out of each township, reserved for schools. All states since 1852 have had two sections reserved. If Kentucky could get this land, and manage it well, it would greatly increase her school fund and lengthen her school term in each district.

Judge Beckner has always advocated whatever would be of most benefit to the masses of the people, and would have been nominated for judge of the court of appeals in 1892 had he been willing to serve. He preferred to go to congress, where he could be useful in a broader and more active field. He is sober and industrious, and made himself very useful whilst in congress in looking after the claims of the people of his district—pension and war claims. He is a great believer in looking and damming the rivers, and thinks this could be secured by proper work from some one experienced as he is in legislation.

Judge Beckner now desires to be returned to congress to continue the work he has already inaugurated during the ninety days which he spent there. This end of this district he is immensely popular with all the people. While we are not on the Kentucky side of the river, numbers of our patrons are, and we take interest in Kentucky affairs, because our circulation is large there. We do not know that we have ever met a gentleman with whom we have been more favorably impressed than with the distinguished gentleman whom we are now discussing. His knowledge is broad and his opinions liberal, and having been brought in contact with public affairs from an early period he is ably fitted for the position to which he aspires. If the people of the Tenth congressional district of Kentucky are looking for an able, honest and hard working representative, Judge Beckner is the one who would honor the place instead of the place honoring him.

We are informed that he has never been beaten and his name would mean two thousand votes to the ticket. He is in every sense of the word a true Kentucky gentleman and makes friends wherever he goes. We are pleased to have met him and shall expect to hear of good done United States for this section of West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky by him.—Southern West Virginian.

Hutchinson for $400; No. 172 to S. A. Hardesty for $500; No. 174 to W. D. Bryant for $500 and No. 176 to Mrs. Sanders for $485. A five room frame cottage, No. 31, on Wilson street, was sold to Warren Bain for $400. Three years ago any of this property would have sold for $800 or a $1,000.

A Chance for Hustlers.
Probably no other paper comes so near filling the want of a general family newspaper as Pennsylvania Grit, which gives away, free, a complete story each week. Its publishers want a hustling agent in every town in the state, not already supplied. Bright boys and girls, who are looking for a chance to make money, should write for terms and sample copies to Grit Publishing Co., Williamsport, Pa.

THE MERCILESS.

There are some shrivelled souls and men, Who, pulled with Holy Writ, defame Their neighbors' doors, and cry unclean, And raise their eyes to God in shame.

Poor fools!—in frailty all are kin; The chosen Peter fell from grace; The man who never shamed in sin Is traitor to the human race.

With scarce an impulse to control, Without one passion to repress, That sinless thing without a seal Is ever the most merciless.

Expand—enlarge your bigot bounds; Embrace the brotherhood of war; Let slip no more your slender bounds, But let the hunted sinner go.

Be large—be liberal; improve Of love, that heaven-freighted ship, To anchor close beside your door, That good may pass from lip to lip.

But there are men whose lives are broad, Whose eyes flash forth a soul-like ray, Still proving something of the God Is stamped upon our human clay.

It is such men whose deeds repair Our shattered faith, 'till so resigned, In spite of all the wrongs we bear, We can not choose but love mankind.—H. F. O'Brien, in The New Bohemian.

To the Farmers and Public Generally.
I have had the flour department of the Hazel Green Mill overhauled and put in first-class condition, by the best miller of the mountains, Ed Mosley, and am now making better flour than was ever turned out from this mill. Our grind days are Tuesdays and Fridays, but we will grind at any time on 20 bushels or more.

wheel, and make a frame so it will fit inside of your bed proper four or five inches high. Nail the wire screen to the bottom, and along the sides upon the wire nail pieces one-inch square, spaced apart one inch, so that the tearing loose, and allows the sieve to run freely upon the rollers. The screen is of about three-eighths inch size. Nail a cross-piece on top of the frame of the rollers, and on the other end of the iron pins. Have a hole through the pin, to slip, on the pin, making it easy to detach when the sieve needs to be cleaned. Underneath the sieve is an elevator or conveyor, made of a wooden board, as principle as a straw carrier, except that the carrier is made of a solid piece of cloth, heavy muslin or ticking with a stick every 12 or 15 inches tacked upon to assist the sifted soil up into the hopper. The elevator is driven by a sewing machine belt. It elevates the sifted soil from under the sieve into a bushel basket, and when this is taken away, another basket is put in its place. The elevator is driven by a belt opening about a third of the width of the sieve, which enables one to clean out the coarser refuse without removing the sieve. The screen should be adjusted so that the refuse will fall about six inches over and beyond the carrier.

Judge Achens in the United States Court at Pittsburgh. Just considered, in the case of Richardson & De Long Brothers vs. Campbell & Smith, containing letters patent owned by Richardson & De Long Brothers, which were granted to Frank E. De Long for a pumped hook and eye, and enjoining the defendants from selling the "Golden Spring" hooks and eyes.

The hooks dealt in by the defendants are manufactured by the Golden Spring Hook and Eye Company, of Springfield, Mass. In these hooks the portions of the straight and curved portions of the De Long loop were reversed. The Court held that this did not constitute infringement, and directed a decree to be entered for the plaintiffs.

The case, which was a test one of great importance, was contested for almost two years.

Messrs. Richardson & De Long Brothers were represented by Messrs. Sturges & Taylor, Bradbury Bell, and John G. Johnson, of Philadelphia, and Frederick P. Fish, of Boston, and the defendants by Messrs. Allan Webster and William L. Pierce.—N. Y. Times, February 3, 1906.

AMERICA'S GREATEST SEED GROWERS.

Thirty years ago when the Salzers were conducting a small but profitable way, a market garden and greenhouse business in La Crosse, Wis., they little dreamed that within a third of a century they would be the leaders in the seed-growing and seed-selling industry of America. The secret of this phenomenal success was their liberality, push. Nothing in the world attracts itself quicker and better, and more lasting than quality and to the superior merit of Salzer's northern grown seeds; to their unusual life and vigor and to their absolute purity of growth, in conjunction with their great producing qualities, and this coupled with the great liberality of the firm in the way of rare and many extras to each order and push back of all, has placed the firm in the van and enables them to the proud distinction of America's greatest seed growers! The production of rare vegetable sorts and new firm seeds has long been a great specialty with this company, owning and operating many thousands of acres of land. Their great eight hundred acre "trial farm" in South Dakota was visited by thousands interested in higher farming, and all roads gave half-acre rate with the name to any wishing to see the farm. The Salzers pay great attention to the new grasses, clovers and fodder plants, and their catalogue contains the largest list of rare farm seeds found in America.

A strong point of the John A. Salzer Seed Co. is that they keep large stocks of everything in the seed line on hand, so that a customer ordering of them is always sure of getting what he orders.

A slight idea of the magnitude of the firm's business can be gathered that they issue probably the largest number of catalogues of any American firm; that they use over $60,000 postage a year, employ in the packing and distribution of their seeds upwards of six hundred hands and require for their distributing warehouse over ten acres of floor room.

A five cent postage stamp sent to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., will bring you their great catalogue.

"The Wooden Hen."

The illustration shows herewith is small in size, but really large when we consider that the "Wooden Hen" is no larger than a hen, yet has double the capacity. It weighs only 15 pounds, has a capacity of 25 eggs, and while not a toy, is just as amusing, besides being instructive to the young. We suggest that every reader of this write Mr. Geo. H. Stahl, Quincy, Ill., and ask for a copy of the handsome little booklet, "Describing the 'Wooden Hen' also his large catalogue of the Model Excelsior Incubator, all kinds of fowls, Menzies' fowls, etc.

A novel application of electricity to warfare has just been made which promises to disarm that ancient art of many of its terrors. A British force made a night attack on an Ashantee army with such an appalling display of electric lights, Roman candles, sky-rockets and pandemonium of fire-crackers that the Ashantees dropped their arms, died and are still running. Not a man was hurt on either side.

The importation into the United States of plants from China and Japan is forbidden on account of the prevalence of cholera in the Asiatic countries. Nothing holds the germs of disease so well as the soil in which the plants are shipped.

JAMES G. BLAINE'S old saddle horse, Denham, died the other day at a farm near Trearton, Me., at the ripe age of 28 years. After Mr. Blaine's death Mr. Blaine sent the horse to the farm near his liberal allowance annually for his support.

TIRED MOTHERS.

They should bring up their children to help them.

There may be mothers who lie down straight through whether or not they ever wake again. Yet after all is this spirit of flesh and vexation of spirit necessary? Was not a little self-sacrifice on the part of all the other members of the family ease this weary mother from fully one-half her labor? There is Jeanne's dress. Could it not be made by a simpler pattern? Could not Willie give up part of the pleasure that he expects to enjoy and for which his mother is making sacrifices that he would not ask if he only understood it? Would not the baby be happier if he were dressed in a dainty gown as plain and brown as the sparrows than if he were dressed in spotless white, merely because it is the custom to dress little children in that way? Is it indispensable to the health and reputation of her children that they should be clothed in finery and fed with dainty food? Let the little mother pause and reflect. Is she not sacrificing her life to merely the opinion of the world? Does not Jeanne demand special finery because her friends wear it, and would it not be good discipline for her to do without it? There is the rub. The mother's love comes in and the mother's pride ready to make any sacrifice that her daughter shall not be mortified by inferior clothes. Has she any right to wear out her strength and nerves for such a shallow cause? Her children need the spur of a little adversity, and she is trying to stand between providence and them. If they are completely shielded from all trouble or sacrifice of their desires, when the time comes, as it surely will, when she can no longer shield them, what ability will they have to take care of themselves?

Little as she realizes it she is doing her children a greater wrong than she is doing herself. She is bringing them up with every wish gratified that it is in her power to gratify, so that they learn long for things that she cannot give them. It is much harder to go backward and return to simpler ways than it is to go forward, even though we know we are wrong, but this is just what is demanded in great many families. Hundreds of families are living far beyond what they can honestly afford. The children are brought up with false ideas of what constitutes necessities and luxuries. Instead of taking pleasure in simple things they long for what is impossible for them to have until they finally believe that they are entitled to it. Nothing worth having was ever acquired and retained except with hard labor. Even people who have acquired sudden fortune have discovered it was fleeting, and only held it with care and work. It is not natural that we should live in this world in perfect ease and happiness. Life is ever made up of mixed passages of light and dark.

Let the mother that loves her children allow them to make some sacrifice and learn to bear small disappointments for the sake of greater ones. Above all things, let her teach to face honestly and unflinchingly the circumstances in which they are placed in this world and never allow them to assume a wealth they do not possess. They thus will be prepared to meet sincerely and faithfully any position in which they are placed.—N. Y. Tribune.

Her Own Mistress.

"If I were living my life over," said an unmarried woman of 50 the other day, "when I reached the age of 25 I should ask my father to give me one of his little houses, of which he owned a good many, and let me go and live in it. When a girl grows into a woman her instinct leads her to long to be at the head of her own home, whether she is married or unmarried. To be absolutely mistress, even of a simple room in a lodging house, after a day of toil, is often better to her than to be under the absolute control of her parents in a comfortable home, and this, even though there may be the tenderest love between them. Few mothers at least ever quite outgrow a sense of arbitrary proprietorship in their daughters, and few daughters between the ages of 25 and 40 can be thoroughly contented in any home of which they are not mistress. However patiently and nobly they may conceal their feelings. After 40 they are often so tired as to be glad to be relieved of all responsibility."—N. Y. World.

On the Care of Rings.

It is never wise to wet rings that have stones in them. Of course, all rings need to be cleaned from time to time, and diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires will stand washing with soap. Turquoise and seed pearls will change color if subjected to any such treatment. The majority of pearls which are not the full round, perfect pearl, which alone will stand wetting, almost all pearls have at least a tiny pin prick somewhere on their surface, and this, like a spot of decay in a tooth, will admit substances which will ruin the pearl. It is therefore usual to rub off one's rings when washing the hands. This is how many valuable jewels are lost. An old-fashioned but excellent preventive of forgetfulness on such occasions is to put the ring in your mouth or at least between your lips. Then you will remember to dip it on your finger after drying your hands.—Detroit Free Press.

Prosperous Farmers.

In Yankton County, South Dakota, there are at least 400 prosperous farmers. Who came here poor as the proverbial turkey of Job, and who today count their worldly possessions as the bounty of God, and almost all of them have large barns, fine horses, cattle, hogs and large granaries filled with grain, fruit and vegetables. The reason for this is the rule—not the exception. With fair prices for grain and live stock they would be rolling in wealth. Prices, however, have been low, and the fertility of the soil and the favorable character of the climate. These natural advantages are here to stay and assure prosperity to the farming classes. A copy of an illustrated pamphlet on "Irrigation in South Dakota" sent without charge by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, can be had by addressing W. E. Forest, General Immigration Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce CHAS. T. BYRD, of Campton, as a candidate for the office of Circuit Court Clerk for Wolfe county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

LACONIC LIVE NEWS.

The state of Kentucky is in a pretty pickle when such men as Jack Chinn and Jim Williams are placed in power to bulldoze decent people.

The present legislature last week did more to disgrace the dear old state than all the feuds in Kentucky for a decade have done. Republican reform!

When such men as Jim Williams and Jack Chinn take charge of the general assembly as chaperons that body should adjourn and go home in disgrace.

Col. Bob Holloway, a sportsman of Lexington, last week harpooned and landed a devil-fish weighing 2,800 pounds off the coast of Florida, where he is spending the winter.

The militia at Frankfort for the last few days of the legislature will cost the tax payers of the state several thousands of dollars, and maybe have a salutary effect in future elections. Republican reform is n't!

The following message came the wire Tuesday evening: "Jack Chinn had a fight and the legislature adjourned without electing a United States senator." What a handsome tribute to an outgoing august assemblage of Statesmen!

The benefits that are being bestowed by the Hazel Green Academy are incalculable. They are like the waves that are caused by dropping a pebble into a pool, which grow larger and larger until all have kissed the outermost shores.

The Kentucky legislature last week disgraced the state and all the decent people in it. The riotous acts of that body were never equalled by the rowdies of Rotten Row in London. Pistols were pulled, whisky flowed freely and the air was blue with blasphemy. Is this the reform the Republicans promised us? If so, God save the mark!

COOPER UNDER FIRE.

Charged With Aiding "Wid" Hall's Swindling Scheme.

The federal court is now engaged in the trial of C. M. Cooper, who is charged with co-operating with "Wid" Hall, the man whose swindle attracted so much attention over a year ago and who was sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary. In brief the case is that "Wid" Hall fraudulently pretended to be conducting a general merchandise store and used the mails to give large orders for goods of varied character. Cooper was given as reference, and when written to would give Hall a strong indorsement.

It appears that Cooper owns considerable property and is accounted a man of wealth at Paintsville, Ky., where he is a prosperous merchant and has a substantial interest in the drug business. He has, moreover, acted as the superintendent of the Methodist Sunday-school there.

The charge is that he acted in collusion with "Wid" Hall in disposing of the goods, and another prosperous general merchant and liquor dealer named Damron, living at Catlettsburg, was also involved in the indictments. Evidence has been adduced to show that goods to the value of near $50,000 have been obtained without payments being made, Louisville merchants being among the sufferers, and that Cooper, without making himself responsible as an indorser, vouched for Hall's standing to an extent which he must have known was beyond reason.

Many witnesses are in attendance, and the most important for the government is Postoffice Inspector Fletcher, who so thoroughly worked up the evidence which convicted Hall. Cooper is defended by Attorney A. E. Willson, of Louisville, and Attorney W. S. Harkins, who has represented the defendants from the beginning of the case. United States District Attorney Smith, as has been his practice—a successful one—is conducting the prosecution alone.—Courier-Journal, 12th.

LATER.—He was acquitted.

ACADEMY NOTES.

Two new matriculates this week. Henry Murphy has gone to his father's, near Maytown, to recuperate.

W. H. Roark and L. J. Gullett are spending the week with their families in Magoffin county.

Botany, American Literature, Roman History and penmanship will be special classes, beginning the 30th inst.

Henry L. Godsey, of Washington, D. C., will address the graduating class on commencement day, June 8rd.

J. H. Stinson and S. M. Nickell are at their homes in Morgan county; the former is looking after some business matters; the latter is taking a few days rest.

No primary declamatory contest will be held this year, but the teachers will appoint a declaimer to represent the Academy in the Bluegrass declamatory contest to be held in May.

The true pupil will stay in school till the last day and the last hour of the session if at all possible. Spring-time often tests the staying qualities of the pupil, and it is not always "raising crops" that attracts from school duties.

At the opening of the next term, March 30, there should be quite a number of new matriculates. The spring-time is the best time in the session for hard studying. Besides special work and attention will be given to those who are preparing to teach school, fitting them for the examination of June 5 and 6.

On the evening of April 5, the following persons will discuss the question—The annexation of Canada to the United States would be beneficial to the latter. Affirmative, A. C. Jones, E. O. Tullbee, Garret Kenney and J. I. Wilson; Negative, R. A. Hord, H. E. Oney, R. K. Nickell, and J. O. Kash. These debates are both interesting and profitable. All should hear them.

The debate on last Friday evening was a success. Every speaker acquitted himself with credit. No better speeches would be heard in the legislative halls of the state. The debaters had studied the subject, and gave to the large audience the fruits of their studies. If the Academites can get the speeches written, we will have them to appear in the columns of THE HERALD, beginning with the next issue. ACADEMITE.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore it requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

If new and true, fresh and clean, in THE HERALD it will be seen, and now is the time to subscribe. $1 pays for it and the Enquirer a year.

Many who are already using the flour made by the Hazel Green Mill pronounce it first-class.
